FOREWORD

SOME of the descendants of Salmon Carver, living in north-eastern Ohio, gathered at the home of L. D. Carver of Little Mountain, Geauga County, on October 13th, 1896, and organized for the purpose of holding annual family reunions. We believe that Mrs. Diantha Carver should have the credit for getting these reunions started, it being at her suggestion and invitation that the family gathered at her home and held that first reunion thirty-four years ago. Since that time we have held our reunions annually without missing a single year. All of the older generation of Carvers have passed away, but the younger generation have enjoyed the fellowship and friendly feeling which was always manifest at these reunions, and it is the common sentiment of the whole family to continue the reunions for many years to come.

Mr. A. M. Carver was chosen the first Reunion President, and Mrs. Minnie E. Carver, his wife, was the first Secretary. Mrs. Carver endeavored to locate as many of the Carver cousins as possible in order to include them in the invitation list, and later on Mr. D. A. Carver, while president, became much interested in looking up family history.

At the 1926 family reunion, Mrs. Carver read some data which she had gathered about our Carver ancestry, and discussion later developed the fact that there was no complete family record in existence. Louisa A. Stebbins, who was the Reunion Secretary at that time, began to gather family records and enter them in the Secretary's book. Mrs. Carver also requested everyone to send her their family dates so that some permanent record could be made.

With the death of Hamilton V. Carver in 1925, the last of Salmon Carver's children had gone, and none of them could ever meet with us at our earthly reunions again. The family had become so scattered as the years went by that the danger of losing all the family records was brought up, and discussed during the business meeting of the 1928 Reunion, with the result that a vote was taken and Mrs. A. M. Carver and Louisa A. Stebbins were requested to constitute a committee to prepare the complete family records in some permanent form.

The committee has been at work for the past two years collecting the records which appear on the succeeding pages, and although these records are not even yet entirely complete, the committee feels justified in presenting the results of their work at this time, hoping that eventually all the records can be filled out in full. The present plan is to add to this family history from time to time in the future when further data and information has accumulated.

At the outset, it was felt that the record should begin with Salmon Carver and his immediate family, but the committee did not realize just how big a task they had undertaken for the first difficulty appeared when they could find no record of either Salmon Carver's birth, death or marriage, or that of either of his wives. Considerable search at the Western Reserve Historical Library in Cleveland gave us the Carver Ancestry, including the birth of Salmon, but no account of his death was found until old issues of the Chardon paper were studied.

In looking up the Trumbull ancestry, no definite information was to be had either at the Historical Library, or elsewhere, until a letter to the Postmaster in Bolton, Connecticut, was turned over to Mr. Samuel Alvord of Hartford and Bolton, who has been very generous in looking up old records for us at the State Capital in Hartford.

The committee was in great despair when all efforts failed to disclose any information about Laura Clough, but after looking up the old deed at the Court-house in Chardon, it was found that Laura Clough's father was Amasa Clough, and the Historical Library found that he was in Washington County, N. Y., at the time of the 1790 U. S. Census. A letter addressed to the Postmaster at Hebron, N. Y., was turned over to Mrs. Anna Armstrong of Shushan, who is a distant cousin, and her mother being a Clough, she had looked up the Clough family, and has given us the information we needed.

Two complete hand-written copies of this Carver Family History have been made after many revisions, and we sincerely hope the printed record will be free from errors, but if mistakes are found, the committee requests that they be reported promptly so that corrections may be made. We also ask that the families help us by sending in complete records wherever they are found incomplete in this book.

The committee wishes to thank all members of the Carver Family who have co-operated with them in this work, and to express a deep sense of gratitude to Mrs. Anna Armstrong, and to Mr. Alvord who have given so much help without any thought of pay.

The work which the committee has done includes about 75 letters written, two days spent looking up old County papers in Chardon, two trips to Vermilion to see Mrs. Dunn, one trip to the Courthouse in Elyria, and a good many visits to the Historical Library in Cleveland.

Having received many friendly, interesting letters, and having thoroughly enjoyed our work in getting up this Carver Family History, we here present the result of our efforts.

SOME NOTES ON OUR ANCESTRY

IN looking up the Carver ancestry, the first thing we discovered was that we are at least as thoroughly American as any of the white race in America, and the second thing is that our ancestry is all "Down East Yankee".

In proof of these statements, here is interesting history. Our first Carver ancestor in America was Robert Carver, brother of Gov. John Carver, who came to America in 1638, perhaps from Yorkshire, England, and settled in Marshfield, Mass.

Our first Trumbull ancestor in America was John Trumbull, who came from Newcastle-on-tyne, England, in 1640, and settled in Rowley, Mass. (Salmon Carver's mother was Esther Trumbull.)

Our first Church ancestor in America was Richard Church, who came from London to Hartford, Conn., with Rev. Thomas Hooker in 1636. (Salmon Carver's grandmother Carver was Esther Church.)

Turning to the Clough side of the family, we find these facts: Our first Clough ancestor in America was John Clough, who came from England on the "good ship Elizabeth" in 1635, and lived in Salisbury, Mass.

Our first Cowles ancestor in America was John Cowles, who came, probably from Gloucestershire, England, in 1634, and lived in Hartford, Conn. (Laura Clough's mother was Triphena Cowles.)

Our first Bardwell ancestor in America was Robert Bardwell, who came from London, England, to Boston about 1670. (Triphena Cowles' mother was Lydia Bardwell.)

We have every reason to be proud of our ancestry, especially our Trumbull relatives. I quote here some words of Henry Howe in his History of Ohio: "The name of Trumbull is imperishably stamped on almost every phase of Connecticut history, and represents distinguished achievement in statesmanship, law, art, divinity, and literature." Some of our famous Trumbull relatives were as follows:

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, Jr., a staunch soldier and statesman. Trumbull County, Ohio, was named for this Governor Trumbull.

John Trumbull, a poet, his poem "McFingal" went through many editions.

Col. John Trumbull studied under the great painter, West, and some of his pictures are in the Rotunda of the Capital at Washington.

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, Sr., a friend of George Washington, governor of Connecticut, both under the Crown and under the U. S. Government. Bancroft says of the first Governor Trumbull: "He was a model of the virtues of a rural magistrate, profoundly religious, grave in manner, discriminating in judgment, fixed in his principles." Washington wrote to him of the weakness of the Army in August, 1776. Governor Trumbull convened his Council of Safety, and although he had already sent out five Connecticut Regiments, he called for nine more.

Rev. Benjamin Trumbull, D. D., brother of Esther Trumbull was a famous clergyman and historian.

*Hon. Lyman Trumbull, D. D., a grandson of Benjamin Trumbull, was a friend of Abraham Lincoln. He was a senator from Illinois during the Civil War.

*James Hammond Trumbull, historian, and his brother, Henry Clay Trumbull, editor for many years of the Sunday School Times.

Among our more immediate relatives, we mention the following who have been prominent in one way or another:

Samuel Carver, Esq., an uncle of Salmon Carver, was for many years in the Connecticut legislature, a very able man.

Rev. Frank Johnson, a grandson of Clarissa Carver, was on the faculty of Rutgers College, New Jersey. His sister married Rev. F. Z. Rossiter, who was for many years a much-loved pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Plainwell, Mich.

Rev. Shubael Carver, son of Perry Carver, graduated from Oberlin College, and was a Congregational minister. His brother, Lyman Carver, visited his cousins here in Ohio, and so did his son, Warner. He was a Sunday School Superintendent for forty years.

Fred W. Isham, grandson of Polly Carver, still living in Elkhorn, Wis., has been a banker. Dr. Frank K. Rexford of Ypsilanti, Michigan, a son of Mille Carver, and his sons had a large department store in Ypsilanti.

It is evident from these facts that we have an honorable ancestry, and that there is good blood in our veins.

Surely these ancestors are an inspiration to every one of us today to make our lives count for something worthwhile, that the world may be a better place because we have lived in it.

C O M M E N T

OUR study of the Carver family has brought out at least one fact which seems significant, and it is this: The family has possessed one common characteristic for at least the last one hundred years. This outstanding trait is pride, just an honest, old-fashioned pride, not a bit boastful, but the sort of pride that has prevented any of the family from ever stooping to do a mean or contemptible thing.

Practically to a person, every descendant of Salmon Carver can look the whole world in the eye, have nothing to fear, nor of which to be ashamed. We cannot say that as a family any of us have ever accumulated much wealth, but a Carver's word has always been as good as his bond. There has always been a good feeling existing among the members of the family which is based on mutual respect, on honesty, and friendly feeling.

Another characteristic which seems to show up in the Carver blood is artistic ability, which we feel may have been inherited from the Trumbull side of the family, for we are proud to claim relationship to John Trumbull, the noted artist, who was an aide to General Washington during the Revolutionary War, and later made a series of great paintings for the Rotunda of the Capital at Washington, depicting scenes from the Revolution. (John Trumbull was a second cousin to Esther Trumbull, Salmon Carver's mother.)

Some of the family who have possessed artistic ability have been Alice Carver Munson, Nina Utter Deaton, Margaret Carver Brinkman, Elgin Munson Howe, Elna M. Carver, and others. Musical ability has manifested itself in Albertus Carver, and his daughter, Mattie A. Murphy, Lucy Clement Arnold, Florence Stebbins Fitch, Marion Mighton Williams, and several others.

The Trumbull family may have also helped to contribute a decided tendency in the family toward book learning, and higher education, for Esther Trumbull's brother, Benjamin, was a very learned minister, and he wrote a valuable book on the History of Connecticut. In this connection it will be noted that many of the Carvers have attended select schools and academies in times past before colleges were as plentiful as they are today. Among college graduates in the family today, we want to mention the following:

Ernest R. Brooks, M. D., Western Reserve University.

Evelyn Utter, B. A. and B. S., Baptist University. (Now at Colorado University, working for Master's degree.)

Mabel Utter Boyd, B. A., Baptist University.

Lillian L. Otis, A. B., Hiram College.

B. A. Williams, A. B., Ohio State University.

Iola Arnold McMillen, Winona Teacher's College.

Harriet F. Bothwell, Hathaway-Brown School, Cleveland, Ohio.
Smith College.

Helen Applegate Otis, A. B., Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio.

R. N., Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

John L. Egbert, A. B., Ohio State University, and Hiram College.

There have been a number of teachers in the family, some of whose names follow:

Marion Carver Hodges, Dora Stevenson Hodges, Elgin Carver Stebbins, Louisa A Stebbins, Leo A. Carver, Margaret Carver Brinkman, Alice Carver Munson, Elgin Munson Howe, Laura R. Mighton, Vera Carver Thompson, Elna M. Carver, Iola Arnold McMillen, and others.

Among the grandsons and great-grandsons of Salmon Carver, we find several engineers. D. A. Carver was for many years a Railroad Engineer on the Lake Shore Road. Leo A. Carver has been a civil engineer, and is now Manager of The Paramount Fire Alarm Equipment Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Delmont Carver, Jr., is an electrical engineer, as is also Ellis Mighton, who has charge of machinery at the P. & L. E. Docks at Fairport, Ohio. Wales B. Otis, Austin R. Mighton, and Carrol Bothwell are salesmen. Nelson Otis is Service Manager at the Detroit Avenue Chevrolet Company, Lakewood, Ohio. George A. Brown is an expert auto mechanic. Arthur Hodges, Forrest and Roy Carver are doing electrical work. James A. Moffet handles rentals and real estate. Wales Carver is with a monumental company at Erie, Pa. Harry Carver is a foreman at The National Acme Company, Cleveland. Lucius Hodges and Wales C. Utter are farmers. (We hope to add to this list when we have more information.)

THE WORLD WAR

BURNS R. McMILLEN served twenty-eight months with the Rainbow Division, 151st F. A.

Dr. Ernest R. Brooks enlisted in the Medical Department, leaving Cleveland January 20, 1918, he was ready to leave camp for a base hospital in France the day the news of the Armistice came.

Carl A. Brinkman served a year and a half in the navy as a cadet taking officers' training. He was on four different ships, serving in foreign waters, and did not return home until some time after the Armistice was signed.

Carroll Bothwell enlisted and was called to Washington, D. C., in February, 1918. He had charge of a condiment can factory (making the cans which the soldiers used in their knapsacks), at Richmond, Virginia, during the entire hot summer of 1918.

Lyman D. Bothwell, Jr., enlisted in April, 1917, but was not called until December, when he reported in Washington, and was placed in the Ordnance Department. He was made a Captain, and served two years in the army.

Leo A. Carver served in the Adjutant General's Department. He was a 2nd Lieutenant, and was stationed at Camp Green in North Carolina, and at Fort D. A. Russell in Wyoming.

Forest M. Carver left home August 22, 1918, and came back December 22, 1918; was at The Ohio Mechanic's Institute, Cincinnati, Ohio, but the Armistice came before he was assigned to any unit.

John L. Egbert served ten months in Italy in Headquarters Company 332nd Infantry Regiment. He left U. S. A. on the Aquitania, June 8, 1918, and returned to New York, April 14th, 1919. Discharged at Camp Sherman, May 27, 1919. He was wounded at Valeggio, Italy, when a trench mortar gun, the fuse of which was not timed correctly, went off accidentally, killing a number of men, and wounding many others.

Wales B. Otis left Cleveland for Camp Sherman in April, 1918. He sailed for France on the Mauretania with Headquarters Company, 324th Field Artillery (Heavy), the latter part of June, 1918. He was a wireless operator, and saw active service around Verdun. Shortly after the signing of the Armistice in November, 1918, he was sent back to the hospital suffering from an attack of influenza. He thus became separated from his company, losing all of his personal belongings. He did not get his mail, and a number of letters written to him at Thanksgiving time, 1918, and later, were not received by him until after he reached home in May, 1919. He returned to the U. S. with Company K, 337th Infantry, 85th Division.

Helen Applegate Otis graduated at Walter Reed Hospital in June, 1921, with a large class of Army Nurses. (The only group of nurses ever trained by the U. S. Army.

Nelson G. Otis enlisted in the Aviation Service of the U. S. Army in June, 1919. He served three years, and was in the 91st Squadron, Bombardment Division, when his term of service expired. He was stationed at San Diego, at San Francisco, and Seattle, Washington. He flew over the Rocky Mountains several times, assisting in taking pictures for map purposes.

Andrew E. Freeburg served for some time in the U. S. Coast Guard.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS

SALMON CARVER had seven sons, but only six grandsons who lived to grow up, and of these only three bore the Carver name.

The grandsons were as follows:

Delmont A. Carver, Adam M. Carver, Archie A. Carver, William R. Long, Fred E. Long, Oscar W. Long.

Salmon Carver had five daughters, and twenty-one granddaughters. The granddaughters were as follows:

Sarah E. Townsend, Laura L. Carver, Ellen C. Carver, Eva L. Carver, Elizabeth M. Carver, Leonora Carver, Adelia Carver, Marion L. Carver, Elgin Carver, Alice E. Carver, Lillian C. Carver, Belle Carver, Elgin Skinner, Della Skinner, Etta M. Skinner, Mattie A. Carver, Nettie Crowningshield, Minnie Carver, Cora Pike, and there were also two daughters of Lewis Carver whose names we do not know.

Salmon Carver has sixty-seven living great-grandchildren, (fourth generation), that we know of, and only eight of these are male descendants by the name of Carver. There are over a hundred of the fifth generation, but only five are boys bearing the Carver name. There are at the present time more than thirty of the sixth generation of descendants.

Mrs. Winnie Utter Brown has the distinction of being a very young great grandmother. She is only 58 years old, and has a great-grandchild two years of age. Mrs. Leonora Dunn and Minnie Carver are the only other great-grandmothers in the family. Mrs. Winnie Utter Brown raised eleven children, and has thirty-one living descendants at the present time.

Descendants of Salmon Carver are now living in sixteen different states.

SALMON CARVER

SALMON CARVER, one of the Pioneers of the Western Reserve, came to Chardon, Geauga County, Ohio, in 1818 from Connecticut. He was born October 24th, 1790, in the little town of Bolton, Tolland County, Connecticut, the youngest child of Ebenezer and Esther Trumbull Carver. He was baptized on August 12, 1792, in the church at Bolton by the Reverend George Colton, who was the ordained minister there from 1763 till his death in 1812.

He married Polly Brown in East Hartford, Connecticut, on April 1, 1814. Previous to 1817 they had one child, Lovern, and in that year they started West, stopping in Central New York State until January 10, 1818, and arriving in Chardon February 2, 1818. They stayed for a week at the "Caravansary" a tavern which was hospitably open to all, kept by Norman King, and then they moved into a log house on the west side of the square in Chardon. This house was owned by James Brunson, and in it William Carver was born on March 28, 1818. Very shortly afterwards Polly Carver died, aged 23 years, and was buried on Chardon Hill, but afterwards the cemetery was moved, and no marker remains to show the location of her grave.

Salmon Carver and his two children went to live with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kibbee in Hambden, and William Carver was raised by Mrs. Kibbee. Lovern was sent back to her mother's people in Connecticut, where she lived the rest of her life.

Salmon Carver married Laura Clough in October, 1821, and they moved into a log house which they had previously built in what was known at the Beebe Settlement just west of the Center of Chardon. Here they cleared two acres of land, and sowed it to wheat remaining there only two years. They then moved onto the farm which we remember as Uncle Ham's old place. This was part of a tract of 625 acres of land between Chardon Center, and Mitchell's Mills, lying on both sides of the road, which Laura Clough's father, Amasa Clough, had bought in 1813. After coming here with his son, Jare, from Washington County, N. Y., Amasa Clough had returned for his family, but sickness interfered and he died probably in 1814, or 1815. The rest of Amasa Clough's family came to Ohio in 1818, and the 625 acre tract was divided among the children.

Eleven children were born to Laura Clough and Salmon Carver, ten of whom lived to grow up, and eight of whom raised families of their own. Salmon Carver is remembered as being a man six feet in height, and of well proportioned build, of a dark complexion, dark hair and brown, or very dark blue eyes. Laura Clough was quite a large woman, her complexion was light and she had light brown hair and blue eyes. She was of a nervous temperament, high spirited, and lively while her husband was a quiet, calm sort of man. The story has come down to us that in the early days when it was impossible to obtain other music, Grandmother Carver often sang for dances and kept time by clapping her hands. We have no record of the days and years of hard work which these ancestors of ours endured in order to make a home in the wilderness, clearing the timber off the land, getting rid of the stumps, raising their children, and growing enough food for the family.

It might be well for us to pause when our own ways seem hard, and think of the real work which our grandparents did. Their courage and endurance should inspire us to carry our burdens uncomplainingly, and be thankful for the comforts we enjoy which they never knew. It would be interesting to know what their thoughts would be if they could return to earth today. Surely they would regret to find their old home entirely torn down, and not one of their descendants living anywhere near the old place.

In the "Geauga County History," these words of Salmon Carver's are quoted from a letter written by him in 1871 to the author of the book:

"When I first came to the farm where I now live, there were no roads excepting the central one, then called the Beebe Road, and no inhabitants in the northern and western parts of the town.

*"I was monarch of all I surveyed,
My right there was none to dispute."*

REMINISCENCES

MARION HODGES remembers her Grandmother, Laura Clough Carver, very well. Once Grandmother was walking on a path across the fields from her home to the Richmond Place on the other road where her son, Lorenzo Carver, then lived. Grandmother always carried her knitting with her, and would often knit as she was walking along. On this occasion, she had dropped her ball of yarn soon after leaving home, and did not notice it until she had almost reached her son's house. She had to go all the way back and pick it up, and when she came into their house, Marion Hodges said she was having a good laugh at the joke she had played on herself.

Ellen Moffet said one of the things she remembers best about her Grandmother Carver was how well she, Ellen, liked to go to their house, and how good Grandmother's cooking was. She always cooked over a fireplace, and did her baking in an oven built into the big chimney. Ellen said her Grandmother's pies looked so good baked in old-fashioned, oblong tins, and set out on the kitchen table to cool. Grandfather would keep a big back-log in the fireplace so that the heat was thrown out into the room.

L. D. Carver often told this story about his father, Salmon Carver. David Gray and his wife were great talkers, and once when they were visiting Grandfather Carver, he seemed to have a great deal of money in his wallet. Mr. and Mrs. Gray were joking quite a bit about it, and asked him several times where he got so much money. Finally Grandfather, who never talked much, said, "Do you want to know where I got all this money? Well, I'll tell you. I have a rich uncle living back in Connecticut, and he pays me big money every year, just to mind my own business."

LOVERN ABIGAIL CARVER

WE have been unable to find out very much about Lovern Carver, but it may be that more information will yet be located. She was about two years old when she came to Ohio with her parents, Salmon Carver, and Polly Brown Carver. Sometime after her mother's death, which occurred about April 1, 1818, Lovern was sent back to Connecticut, and was brought up by her mother's people. In the U. S. Census of 1850 we find Lovern Carver living in the home of Charles Brown (aged 38 years), and Ann Brown (aged 80 years), in Clinton, Conn. Ann Brown was very likely Lovern's grandmother, and with them also lived Sarah E. Townsend (aged 16 years). We ^{think} ~~know~~ that Lovern Carver was the mother of Sarah E. Townsend, for there is an old Bible in the Hurd family, and on the fly leaf is written, "Lovern Abigail Carver", and on the opposite page, "Charles H. Hurd's Bible, presented to him by his grandmother."

In an old list of deaths in Clinton, Conn., this was found, "Loverna Carver died November 29, 1859, aged 43 years."

Mrs. Mabel Hurd Currie informs us that Lovern Carver's old Bible was in use in her father's home for family prayers during all her childhood. Mrs. Alida Hurd Lofmark remembers an old string of woven beads which were her mother's, and which had the name of Townsend woven into them.

Charles Brown was a dearly beloved Uncle of Sarah Townsend Hurd, and at her request she was buried in his burial plot.

WILLIAM (HENRY) CARVER

WILLIAM Carver was born in a log house on the Square in Chardon, Ohio, and his mother died only a few days later. He was raised by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kibbee of Hamden, Ohio. It must have been a task requiring much patience and skill to raise a little tiny baby in a new country, with so few of even the necessities of life, and it was only the mother love in a good woman's heart that could have succeeded so well. Mrs. Ellen Carver Moffet, his daughter, speaks very affectionately of "Grandmother Kibbee".

The little baby left motherless in the small settlement of Chardon which consisted of only a few log houses in the midst of the big woods, grew up to be a strong, sturdy man. He loved to hunt and trap. Fur bearing animals were plentiful, and he earned money when he was young by trapping during the winters in the Michigan woods. Actual cash was very scarce in the early days, and trapping and selling furs was one of the few ways to earn real money.

Uncle William had a farm in Claridon. He always kept bees, and had honey for his own use as well as to sell. One of the memories which Marion Carver Hodges has of visiting Uncle William's place is the nice honey they had, and the delicious biscuits Aunt Rhoda made.

Both Uncle William and Aunt Rhoda loved to visit with their friends, and were fond of telling jokes. They were both full of fun.

Uncle William died at the age of 82, in the year 1900, after having lived three years at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. F. Dow, in Painesville. The funeral was held in East Claridon, Ohio.

LEWIS CARVER

WE know very little about Lewis Carver, perhaps because he left Geauga County, and went to live near Oberlin, Ohio, about 1852. It seems that he went down there to cut timber for there was a great deal of big timber in that section. He had three little girls, aged 2, 4 and 8, at the time of his wife's death in 1854. The four-year-old child Leonora was immediately adopted by neighbors after her mother died, but Uncle Ham went down there about that time, stayed awhile, and tried to make a home for the other children. However, homes were found for these two girls and Lewis Carver remarried in August, 1855. He had three children by his second wife, two girls and a boy. The boy died, and the wife and two children went to the state of Washington after the war, and we do not know what became of them. Mrs. Leonora Dunn says she remembers that her father came to see her once and brought her a bag of oranges. He had to walk five miles to see his little girl, and she has always felt that he cared a great deal for his children.

He enlisted at Henrietta, Ohio, August 12, 1862, and in September, 1863, he with some other men became separated from the rest of the army, and were lost for several days in the woods. They were without food and when they got back to their camp, they overate and Lewis Carver died from the effects.

Mrs. Dunn remembers plainly the last time she saw her father. The people who had adopted her were living in Nashville, Tenn., where her foster father was building a big bridge, when they were compelled to get out because of the fighting in that location. They were returning to Ohio, and were passing through Cincinnati on a train when a company of soldiers marched through their car to reach their own train on another track. Her foster father told her to watch a certain soldier, and when he passed her seat she saw that it was her own father. He smiled at her, and she felt sure that he recognized her, but the soldiers were not allowed to stop, nor speak to anyone.

Mrs. Dunn says that he did not seem to be as tall nor as large a man as Uncle Ham. He died October 3, 1863, at Camp Nelson, Kentucky, and is buried there.

LORENZO DOW CARVER

HIS nephews and nieces always called him "Uncle Renn", and he had a great many friends even though he was quick-tempered, and had a very nervous and high-strung disposition. He lived a long life full of adventure and experience. While a young man, he bought some land in Pennsylvania, and afterward sold it at very little profit just before coal was discovered on it. He grew up in a new country, and learned the pioneer arts and crafts of wood-cutting, hunting, trapping, etc. He was a good stone mason, and very quick, but had not the patience to put on the fine finishing touches. He built the school house at Chardon Center, and also the Maple Rock school house. He got permission to change the road, and laid out the present one down through the dug-way in Chardon Township, and also, built the bridge over the river at the foot of the dug-way hill. For a time he raised peppermint and distilled the oil on his farm. He also dug out a swampy low-lying part of his farm where there were six springs, and made it into a large pond which he stocked with carp.

In 1852 he went to the California gold fields by way of the Isthmus of Panama. He went to New York taking a boat to Panama, and had to go across the Isthmus on foot, as there was no railroad then. On the road many of the people going to California became sick, some died, there were robbers, and all sorts of troubles. One poor woman begged the passers-by to help her, and L. D. Carver, stopping to talk with her, found out that her son had broken his leg (or arm), and there was no doctor to do anything. Although he had never done it before, he set the broken bone and put on the splints, and bound it up. He was in California two years, and sent home quite an amount of money.

He was a famous hunter, being exceedingly quick, and having wonderful eyesight. He always hunted with a rifle, and had killed forty deer in five different states. He probably shot the last deer in Geauga County in 1856, in the eastern part of Montville Township. He shot his first deer in Olean, N. Y., when he was 21 years old. After he was seventy years of age, he went hunting three different Falls in Michigan with the Willoughby Hunting Club, killing twenty deer altogether. He never lost his interest in life, and attended the ball games held near his home in Mentor during the summers after he was eighty-five years old. He read about the building of the Panama Canal, and talked about going to see it the Fall before he died.

His wife, Aunt Mandy, was a fine sweet natured woman, a wonderful hand to help out in sickness in the old days when the farm women had to do all the nursing that was done, and a good deal of the doctoring. Delicious memories of her pies have come down through the years, and she had a "way" with plants and flowers. Her door yard was a lovely garden even though the soil was hard clay. After her death, L. D. Carver married Mrs. Diantha Carleton when he was past seventy years of age, and they lived to celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary. He died March 2, 1915, at his home in Mentor, and is buried in the Mentor cemetery.

WALES CARVER

UNCLE WALES is remembered with a great deal of love and respect by all who knew him. He was not as nervous as his brother, Lorenzo, but loved a good time, enjoyed company and had a well developed sense of humor. He was a man of medium build with very blue eyes and dark hair. Many stories have been handed down about him. Once he was at a party and thinking to be smart and make the crowd laugh, he said to one of the girls: "Oh Jeanette, how I do love you!" Quickly the girl answered, "You'd better bestow your love on somebody that loves you." So the laugh was on Uncle Wales instead of the girl.

When Uncle Wales and his brothers were young they used to boil sap out in the woods in a big kettle every spring. On one occasion some young people came out to the sugar bush on Sunday. They were dressed up in their good clothes and the Carver boys decided to play a trick on the young man of the party—Newt Murphy by name, I believe. There was a place out back or to one side of the sugar camp where the skimings were thrown and they placed leaves over this and marked out a goal. They stumped Newt Murphy to see if he could jump as far as they could. Of course when they jumped they landed short of the skimings, but when Newt jumped he exceeded them and landed in the slippery skimings, his feet went out from under him and he rolled over in the mess, which about ruined his new clothes.

L. D. Carver had a joke to tell on Uncle Wales. When they were boys they went fishing in a boat on Grand River. Uncle Wales was somewhat afraid of the water and got pretty excited when the boat tipped over. The river at that place was so shallow that he was standing on the bottom with his head and shoulders out of the water but he was shouting at the top of his voice that he was drowning!

Uncle Wales built a nice new home on Mentor Ave., near Painesville, Ohio, in 1885. This house was very well built and it is reported the cost was greater than he expected and that it worried him quite a bit. He was on jury in Painesville and was taken very suddenly sick in January, 1892. He had a severe case of the grippe and only lived a few days.

His wife, Aunt Martha, grieved over his death for the rest of her life, and could not bear to live in their new house after he died. The family have always used almost a special tone of voice when they have spoken of Aunt Martha, for she was a real lady, as sweet and refined as a woman could ever be. She had learned to do fine sewing and knitting when she was a girl. At the age of 10 years she had knit ten pairs of stockings, some for her doll and some for herself. She and Uncle Wales never had any children but they adopted a son. There are several boys in the family who were named after Uncle Wales. He and Aunt Martha entertained a great deal and had a large circle of friends.

His funeral was held at the Disciple Church in Mentor on January 24, 1892, Rev. D. W. King officiated and he was buried in Mentor Cemetery.

PERMELIA CARVER

AUNT PERMELIA was the only girl of the family who lived to old age so we knew her better than we did her younger sisters Eveline, Coralyn and Celestia. She had very bright blue eyes and like her brothers her eyesight was remarkably good. She had light hair when she was young, and must have been a handsome girl.

When Aunt Parmelia was young, she learned to do all kinds of work, for she was the oldest girl in the family, and it is not hard to imagine that she and her mother were busy when we remember that they spun and wove the family clothes, knit the family stockings, made the soap, cooked at a fireplace and baked in a brick oven built in the chimney. They made the candles for light, took care of the younger children, and did all the washing, buttermaking, milking and many other things. There are no thrilling things to tell about Aunt Parmelia, but perhaps when we see what the recording angel has written about her life, the fact that she was a good wife and mother, a true friend and neighbor, will make her record shine with a wonderful brightness.

When she and Uncle George were married they slipped away very quietly one night because they feared that her brothers would play some tricks on them if they knew she was going to get married. It was winter time and when they got to the Justice of the Peace's home they found him sick in bed but he stuck his head out of the window, and married them while they remained in the sleigh.

Aunt Parmelia was a wonderful cook and housekeeper, she was good natured and full of fun, and so was Uncle George. They moved to Cleveland just after the Civil War and lived there the rest of their lives. Uncle George was an old time carpenter, who knew how to build things right. His daughter Etta Skinner Bothwell, has a screen door which he made for her thirty years ago, and the frame is as good as ever although it has been in constant use, and the wire has had to be renewed. Aunt Martha Carver thought a great deal of Aunt Parmelia, and hoped to spend her last days with her; so it was arranged, and she went to Cleveland, and lived at Aunt Parmelia's for some time before her death. Elgie Skinner was a nurse, and took care of Aunt Martha when she died. Elgie also cared for Aunt Mandy when she had her operation for cancer.

Uncle George and Aunt Parmelia died at home only a few months apart, and are buried in the Monroe Street Cemetery, in Cleveland, Ohio.

ALBERTUS CARVER

UNCLE BERT, as he was called by all the nephews and nieces, was quiet and unassuming in disposition, and how he could coax the music out of a violin! Those who remember Salmon Carver say that Uncle Bert was more like him in looks and manner than any of the other brothers. After his marriage in 1858 he built an addition onto the old home and lived there with his folks until after the war. About 1866 or 1867, he bought the place where he spent the rest of his life.

During the Civil War he served two years in the Army, enlisting August 11, 1863, as a musician in Company M, 2nd Regiment, Ohio Heavy Artillery. At first they did not have any instruments, and he served as a private for two months, and was then detailed as an orderly, Aide to Colonel Gibson. They were stationed at Mumfordsburg and Cleveland, Tennessee, most of the time, but some of his letters (which his daughter, Mattie, now has in her possession), were written from Bowling Green and Knoxville, Tennessee, and some from Covington, Ky. He does not mention being in any battles, only in skirmishes. As soon as their instruments were received, he entered the regimental band where he served until the end of war. He was given a B-flat cornet, and was taught to play it under an instructor. He was mustered out and honorably discharged at Nashville, Tennessee on August 23, 1865.

After returning home he kept up his music besides doing his farm work. He also did a great deal of painting of houses and buildings in that neighborhood. In 1873 he travelled with Hilliard's Show playing the E-flat cornet in the band. The show went down through Ohio directly south, crossed into Kentucky, and went on into Tennessee. He received $60 a month as salary that season which was big wages for that time. The next year, 1874, he went with Newton Brothers Show which travelled west into Indiana and Illinois, and his salary was $65 a month.

He joined the Chardon Band, and was a member for many years, playing the E-flat cornet. In 1880 he played with the band at the Celebration of Uncle David Gray's 100th birthday. It was quite an occasion, and President Garfield was there. Uncle Bert attained quite a reputation as an old-time violin player, playing for dances at many places in Northern Ohio. He made many friends wherever he went, having great faith in his friends, and enjoying their visits, especially as he grew older.

Some of the young people of the family spent about the happiest hours of their lives at Uncle Bert's old place during the summer vacations. The old barn, the well, the shady front yard, the big woodshed, the orchard and the pear trees can never be forgotten. We remember Uncle Bert as he sat in his old rocking chair on the porch quietly reading and smoking his pipe. For many years his wife was an invalid, and his daughter Mattie kept house for him, faithfully caring for him in his last sickness. During the last eight months of his life, he was almost helpless, but still never complaining. He died at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, March 1, 1906, and was buried in the Mentor Cemetery. Reverend D. R. King officiated at the funeral.

A LETTER WRITTEN BY WINNIE UTTER BROWN

Shawnee, Okla., February 6, 1930.

DEAR Cousins:—My father fired a stationary engine to run pumps for oil wells and we lived near Titusville, Pa., when I was born, on a farm where the first oil well was drilled in Pennsylvania. We moved back to Ohio when I was about two years old and my brother Wales was born there. My father tried to learn the tailors' trade but the work was too confining and we moved back to Pennsylvania, in 1877. In 1879, we went West to Valley Co., Nebraska, and homesteaded and tree-claimed a half section of prairie land. My brother saw the old place last summer and nearly all the apple trees that they set out were still living. I was married in 1888 to a neighbor's son and lived in a one-room sod house for two months on my husband's tree claim. Then we loaded up a farm wagon with some tools, bedding and cooking outfit and started for Texas. In Henrietta, Texas, we found we could get cheap land but not a good title so we came back to Purcell, Indian Territory and rented land from a "squaw man" and lived in a log house, made a crop and got beat out of it because we did not rent through the Indian Agent but we didn't know that. In the Spring of 1889, Old Oklahoma opened up and we made the race, or my husband did. We drove our covered wagon east of Oklahoma City on the line. It was April 22, 1889, and he rode our big gray horse and staked a claim but it was all "cornered" (Men went in before time) so, rather than have a lawsuit (some of the claims have only been settled the last few years) we just left it. Well, we made several races but never got what we wanted. We finally bought the 160 acres we live on now, that was twenty-five years ago. We have a very good living but are not rich, as it is upland not bottom, and washes badly. We have terraced it now and that helps some.

Our oldest son was born in a dugout and it leaked every time it rained. In our first home in the south we lived in one room from April till November, there were seven grown people in it, and I guess we would have had to take turns sleeping but there was a little log hut that we put two beds in.

Our worst bad luck was my husband's health. He had typhoid fever while he was in California and the southern climate did not agree with him. He would have two or three sick spells every year. I have done lots of hard work but the hottest work I ever did was mowing away hay in the haymow in July and August.

Once I helped run the horse hay-rake for over three hundred tons of hay. I just drove the team and dumped it.

Our most fun was at the country dances we used to have, and sleigh riding. We went to school nine years in Nebraska in a sod school house and one time we got caught in a blizzard. Papa came after us in a pung or sled and had just decided he was lost when he ran upon a drift and turned over into the school house door. We sat on the sled with a comforter over and one under us. My father walked and lead the team and we made it home all right.

Cotton is the main crop here; corn and some small grain is raised in places. and garden stuff grows good. I raised and sold over $70 worth of tomatoes last year. I used to make overalls and shirts for all the boys but now we can't save anything making them at home. We sometimes have cyclones here—Shawnee was struck several years ago and quite a bit of damage was done. My husband's sister was hit and died from her injuries.

I remember playing with Archie Carver and Lily and Belle, also remember Cousin Marion, who was my mother's favorite cousin. We were visiting in Ohio in August, 1879, just before we moved out to Nebraska.

Well this letter is getting long, so will close for this time, so goodbye. Give my love to all.

Your Cousin,

Route No. 4, Shawnee, Okla.

WINNIE.

HAMILTON VARNEY CARVER

WE called him "Uncle Ham", and his home, about a mile west of Chardon Center, was a pleasant place to visit. When a young man, he left home and went down to his brother Lewis' place near Oberlin, Ohio. While there, he became a great friend of Ed Long, and later married Aunt Thurza, who was Ed's sister.

Uncle Ham was a good hand to shear sheep, being muscular and very quick. He made a business of sheep-shearing, and did a great deal of it every year for many years. He could shear about fifty sheep a day, receiving $2.00 a day for his work. He was very handy with a scythe too, and was wonderfully quick at pitching hay. Jim Fitch and Uncle Ham built a good many rail fences for the farmers for miles around, and for Uncle Wales among many others.

Uncle Ham was fond of coon hunting and enjoyed many such tramps with Abe Phelps and other cronies. He had two different attacks of pneumonia, the second one very serious. Old Dr. Dimmock, of Chardon, said it was only the careful nursing he received that saved his life. Aunt Thurza was his nurse, and she was noted around the whole neighborhood for her ability in nursing the sick. Of course, she did this without any thought of pay, and was always ready and willing to go wherever she could.

Uncle Ham and Aunt Thurza celebrated their Golden Wedding in 1908, by having the Carver Reunion at their home. Other friends were invited, and they received a number of nice presents, a considerable sum of money in gold among other things.

After Aunt Thurza's death in 1915, Uncle Ham lived with his son Archie most of the time, and in the Spring of 1924, injured his foot. This seemed to be very difficult to heal, and finally became infected. He died from the effects of this injury at the home of his older son, Addie, in Lorain, Ohio, and was buried in the Mentor Cemetery.
